Black Cat, Yellow Cat, Eyes A Fire Citrine

for KRWJ

That winter our flues caught fire and skates
Inscribed the avenue — storm franchised Playground it became. We to the grates
Of antique houses, sipped Jerez, surprised Ourselves at survival.

Then summer came and sky after sky refused its rain. Tonic and gin relieved us then — that air like hames
Yoked upon us and all surprises chthonic.

Our play at privation is no preparation;
This fugue's stretto dissolved by bells, flat
Bourdon, ungaging the moment's flow.

Pavane
of archaic costume, tearful trudge.
Cassation.

And last a hint of wind between le chat
Noir et la chatte jaune avec les yeux citrins.
